ROSACEA

A Misunderstood Skin Disease

Rosacea is a skin disease that primarily affects fair-skinned individuals between the ages of 30-65. It results from chronic inflammation and abnormal blood vessel response to stimuli. Rosacea is not a form of acne or infection, as some people believe.

Rosacea can be found in five types:

- Generalized redness of the face
- Red bumps and pimples
- Flushing/Reddening
- Skin thickening and redness
- Eye irritation
